

ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

A method and system of blurring a digital video image or video stream having a plurality of pixels, each having a value specifying color data. A particular pixel of the plurality of pixels is identified. A number of pixels from the plurality of pixels is selected. A blurred value is determined as a function of the values of the selected pixels. The value of the particular pixel is replaced with the blurred value.